

Biology

4. The mucus is released by the inner cells of the stomach.

This mucus is highly important for us as it acts as a protective layer for the stomach against its own secreted enzymes and acids.